

Contents

Acknowledgements	v
Foreword – David McGowan	vii
Introduction	ix
1 Novices and apprenticeships, the monasteries and the barber surgeons Malcolm Bishop	1
2 The Royal Colleges, the LDS, and the struggles of the nineteenth century Stanley Gelbier	17
3 The first university degree courses in dentistry Helen Marlborough	25
4 Dental school in the 1950s David McGowan	41
Discussion – Stuart Robson, Chair	47
5 The General Dental Council and its Education Committee Robin Basker	49
6 From the 1970s on: The age of committees, new directions and opportunities, taken or not Colin Smith	57
7 Regulating the education and training of dentists, 1975-2000: An overview of exponential growth in a core function of the General Dental Council Nairn Wilson	69
8 The evolution and development of vocational training in Scotland, from the point of view of dental practice Roy McBurnie	81
9 The Scottish dimension Jim Rennie	95
Discussion – David McGowan, Chair	103